

MURDER DONE AT MIDDAY.

FRIGHTFUL STRUGGLE AND BUTCHERY ON A BUSY STREET CORNER.

Doctors Coming and Going Upstairs While the Assault Was Being Made. The Victim Was Killed by a Knife Thrown at Him by the Assassin.

Antonio Solos, a Cuban coolie, whose Chinese name was Chong Ong, kept a little restaurant in the basement at the southeast corner of Spring and Wooster streets. Solos was a very quiet, unassuming man, and his customers were chiefly from his friends and associates in the cigar shops in the neighborhood. A number of the employees of Ohio & Ravinia of South Fifth avenue were regular customers.

Solos had no family. He himself slept in a room at the corner of Spring and Wooster streets, and he had a long knife in his hand, which was the chief article of his trade, which he used to cut up the meat and vegetables as he called for, and which he cooked himself. He kept the till and made change. If at any time he had no change, he would go to the bank and look it up and wait his way. He usually told the waiters, the groceryman overhead where he was going and when he would be back.

A stairway leads down into the basement from Wooster street, near the corner, and another from Spring street, about twelve feet from the corner. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Solos came up the Spring street stairway and told groceryman John H. Warrach that he was going over to the Bowers. Warrach saw him walk in that direction through Spring street. Nobody has been found who saw him come back.

At 2 o'clock Thomas Daly, a licensed vander, living at 147 Hudson street, came along up Wooster street with his wagon, heavily laden with "Cabbages." He drove down the street, and when he came to the corner of Spring and Wooster streets, he saw a man running across the street. He stopped, and saw a man running across the street. He stopped, and saw a man running across the street. He stopped, and saw a man running across the street.

The man who was running across the street was Antonio Solos. He was running across the street, and he was running across the street. He was running across the street, and he was running across the street. He was running across the street, and he was running across the street.

One of the big glasses in the Spring street door had been broken in the fight. A piece of the glass was flying over the floor. The two tables on the Spring street side were a mass of confusion. There were two tables on the Spring street side. There were two tables on the Spring street side. There were two tables on the Spring street side.

There are no indications that trading has been going on to any considerable extent in Brooklyn, and in the State canvass it will be a fair stand-up Democratic and Republican fight. It is reasonably expected that Brooklyn will give a majority of 10,000 for Hill, and that the county totals will add 2,000. Other estimates set the majority at higher figures, but the Brooklyn vote is the one that is most certain.

The Jeffersons, of which Alderman Tommy Sherry is President, met last night at their club room on Broadway and 12th street. The hall was packed, and a large crowd of people were present. Alderman Sherry, who presided, said: "Certain men whom we have boosted into office here have been doing us wrong, and have gone over to the County Democrats. We have prevented the County Democrats from carrying out their policy, and we have prevented the County Democrats from carrying out their policy."

Under the shelter of anonymity, and in the closing hours of the canvass, a circular has been sent to the County Democrats, asking them to support the County Democrats. The circular was signed by "A. B. C.," and it was signed by "A. B. C." The circular was signed by "A. B. C." The circular was signed by "A. B. C."

From the religious motto and a religious book printed in Spanish it was surmised that the assassin was a Spaniard. It was surmised that the assassin was a Spaniard. It was surmised that the assassin was a Spaniard. It was surmised that the assassin was a Spaniard.

The alleged murder conspiracy. BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The Grand Jury today considered the Allen-Coolidge conspiracy matter. Chief Justice Hancock and Mr. Schlesinger, clerk of the Superior Court, were present. The case was heard by the Grand Jury today. The case was heard by the Grand Jury today.

Crushed under a falling safe. BOSTON, Nov. 2.—This afternoon, while the Boston library safe, weighing about two tons, was being moved from the second story of the North block at College street, it fell from the top of the building, and crushed under it a man named John H. Warrach. Warrach was a groceryman, and he was a groceryman. Warrach was a groceryman, and he was a groceryman.

The father of five children. GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 2.—Thomas James, a colored man, was found dead in a room at the corner of Spring and Wooster streets. He was found dead in a room at the corner of Spring and Wooster streets. He was found dead in a room at the corner of Spring and Wooster streets.

KILLED WITH AN INK ERASER.

Dead Ending of a Fictitious Two Young Clerks—A Wound in the Heart.

Jeremiah P. Cunningham, aged 16, a clerk in the office of H. L. Hobart, a dealer in groceries and dry goods at 120 Front street, died yesterday morning of a wound in the heart inflicted by Samuel Chase, a fellow clerk. Chase is 17 years old, and he and Cunningham assisted George McGinnis, the bookkeeper, at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon McGinnis was still at work at his books. Behind him were Cunningham and Chase, who had finished their work and were waiting for him to get through with the books. McGinnis had been making a noise, but thinking that they were skylarking, and not looking around until he heard a sharp, and turning saw Chase supporting Cunningham, who was bleeding from a wound in the left breast. Chase told him that Cunningham had fallen from a ladder, and that he had been killed. Cunningham died before the ambulance reached the hospital.

NEWS FROM THE OLD WORLD.

FACTIONS IN AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA IN SYMPATHY WITH SERBIA.

Seventy thousand Bulgarian troops mobilized and equipped for active service—Serbia sending more troops to the front.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The mutual distrust between Austria and Russia is daily becoming more marked. The Governments of both countries are awayed by factional differences among their people, and many apparent inconsistencies are accounted for by that fact. It is certain that M. de Oliva, the Russian Foreign Minister, is subjected to a strong and persistent pressure from the Russian Slavophiles, and whatever way he turns he is likely to have a vicious fire in the rear. Count Kalnoky, the Austrian Foreign Minister, is known to incline to peace, but he is hampered by the Hungarians, who sympathize with Serbia's ambitions and want the power of Austria-Hungary to be actively employed in her behalf. A dispatch from Vienna to the Standard says that the Austrian Government will submit to a renewal of the status quo ante without conditions, and that the Russian Government has been sent from Philippopolis to the city of Sofia, and that the Russian Government has been sent from Philippopolis to the city of Sofia.

The city of Sofia has been denuded of Serbian troops, and the Serbian Government has been sent from Philippopolis to the city of Sofia. The city of Sofia has been denuded of Serbian troops, and the Serbian Government has been sent from Philippopolis to the city of Sofia.

THE TABER DIVORCE SUIT.

CLOSING THE CASE WITH REHEARING TESTIMONY FOR BOTH SIDES.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The testimony in the Taber divorce case is all in. The same great crowd that has thronged the Court House on the previous days of the trial sat through the closing in this case. The evidence in rebuttal produced in behalf of Mr. Taber. Again Mr. Taber became faint and left the room, returning an hour afterward, when he declared to her pastoral adviser that she felt "awful sick." Several witnesses, who have been more or less intimate with the Taber family, testified that Mr. Taber was always very kind to his wife. They denied in detail many of the allegations of cruelty and neglect made by Mrs. Taber and her witnesses.

Ambrose S. Taber testified that his brother, the libellant, was in Medford on Wednesday, Aug. 19, the day when Census Enumerator Ruffin said he saw him at Mr. Pendegast's room. At that time, Mr. Ruffin, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber told him he found his wife sitting at the head of the bed and Pastor Downes at the foot when they broke open the door of Mr. Taber's room, having been called to the stand, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.

Pastor Downes, who had testified the other day that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room, testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room. He testified that Mr. Taber said nothing about his discovery when he broke into his wife's room.
